

05-255 Office of Financial Institutions

The Office of Financial Institutions (OFI) charters, licenses, and supervises those financial services providers whose regulatory oversight has been statutorily assigned to this office. Supervision consists of conducting on-site examinations, off-site monitoring, serving as a resource for regulatory issues, investigating complaints, and taking corrective action when necessary. All funding for the program is self generated through assessments, licensing, and examination fees collected from the regulated entities. The Office of Financial Institutions has only one program, Financial Institutions. Therefore, the mission and goals of the Office of Financial Institutions are the same as those listed for the Office Financial Institutions Program in the program description that follows.
